But as the enemy were in much superior strength this force was compelled to fall back and await reinforcements.

OFF COAST OF GUERNSEY as a Precaution Against Its Possible Use by Germany.

London, Nov. 23, 4.13 p. m.—The island of Herm, one of the channel group off the coast of Guernsey, which is less than one hundred square mass in area, has been occupied by British troops as a precaution against its possible use by Germany. Some time age a mild agitation was started in Great Britain because the island was leased to Prince Von Bleucher, a descendant of the famous German commander at the battle of Waterloo.

A wireless plant was found there shortly after the outbreak of the war and was destroyed.

Reginald McKenns, home secretary, explained in the house of commons that a German company had leased the island as far back as 1889. This company in turn leased it to Prince Von Bleucher, who, though placing certain restrictions, allowed tourists to land in some cases. The island has been inspected, Mr. McKenna said, and no cvidence was found of military preparations. Mr. Wilson plans to give more attention to appropriations hereafter than he was able to do last year be-cause of the press of other business. The president has already discussed expenditures at several meetings and improssed on the secretaries the nec-essity for economy. He has been told, however, that the beginning of the new governmental activities, such as the trade commission, and the federal
